

ABSTRACT

A method for softlimiting or clipping a signal. The method includes the step of searching for at least the highest peak above a threshold within a first 5 window created from a set of samples of the signal. Thereafter, a threshold-correcting signal is added to the highest peak found.